ABSTRACT

Irsyandi Darso. 2024. "Jo Ou Kasa Ngom Kage" (A Study of Political Participation of the Millennial Generation in West Ternate District in the 2024-2029 Legislative Elections). Advisors: Dr. Syahril Muhammad, M.Hum and Dr. Misrina, S.IP.,M.A.

This study was conducted with the following objectives: (1) To examine and identify political participation in the "Jo Ou Kasa Ngom Kage" tradition among the millennial generation in West Ternate District, (2) To determine the response of the millennial generation regarding political participation in the "Jo Ou Kasa Ngom Kage" tradition in West Ternate District. The research method used was a case study with a qualitative approach. The subjects of the study were academics, traditional leaders, community leaders, and youth. Data collection techniques were observation, interviews, and documentation. The data analysis techniques used were data reduction, data presentation, and drawing conclusions.

Based on the results of the study, it was concluded that (1) The political participation of the millennial generation is still significantly influenced by the "Jo Ou Kasa Ngom Kage" tradition in West Ternate District. This is because the tradition of "Jo Ou Kasa Ngom Kage" is a cultural heritage inherent in the community in West Ternate District, which has values of belief, devotion, loyalty and obedience as a guideline for community life and is included in the political context. However, in the political context, the tradition of "Jo Ou Kasa Ngom Kage" is embedded in a campaign instrument for the political interests of the nobility. (2) The millennial generation gives an ambivalent response to the tradition in Ternate, because the millennial generation does not only accept tradition passively, but also reinterprets the tradition in the context of modern life. In the aspect of tradition, they appreciate and respect the values that are inherited, such as the importance of loyalty to the community and traditional leaders. However, in the modern aspect, they question the relevance of the tradition in contemporary political and social challenges. This can be seen from the tendency among the millennial generation to be more rational and critical in politics, so that it sometimes conflicts with traditional values that emphasize unconditional obedience.
