ABSTRACT

Andriani S. Ikbal, 2024. Effectiveness of Village Fund Management in Supporting Community Empowerment in Baru Village and Akegula Village, Obi District, South Halmahera Regency. Main Supervisor: Abdul Hadi Sirat, Accompanying Mentor: Rahmat Sabuhari.

The objectives of the research carried out are: (1) Analyze the effectiveness of village fund management in Baru Village and Akegula Village. (2) Identifying factors that influence the effectiveness of village fund management in supporting community empowerment. (3) Evaluate community participation in managing village funds in Baru Village and Akegula Village.

The research method used is a descriptive qualitative research method to provide a clear picture of the problems being studied as well as conducting interviews with 14 informants.

The research results show that: (1) The effectiveness of village fund management in the Village cannot yet be said to be effective, whereas in Akegula Village it can already be said to be effective. (2) Factors that influence the effectiveness of village fund management are in the New Village Government, due to a lack of understanding regarding village fund management towards development. (3) The role of the community in the village fund management process in supporting community empowerment is very important for the village government, because community involvement will contribute to the quality of village program planning and community empowerment.
